Vote Early, Vote Often; The Filthy Lucre Guide to Politics

Skeletor Rodriguez: Political Guru

We're sure that our more astute readers have been keeping up with the historic primaries this year, while our less astute readers were busy licking Cheeto™ dust off of their fingers and watching Dance Fight.

Though the Filthy Lucre will not be officially endorsing any candidate, we are happy to provide a public service in the form of this handy guide to political parties.

What's Hesske Hiding? Professor Shirks Radio Appearance

Lupé Tragedia: Editor

By the time this issue goes to print, the first (though hopefully not last) Filthy Lucre Radio Hour will have finished. We're sure it was a stunning success, without a doubt the finest bit of music, information, and entertainment to fly through the airwaves in many years. But what was missing from this gala occasion? None other than our highly anticipated guest, Professor Steve Hesske.

Mere hours before his scheduled appearance, Professor Hesske informed us through a spokesperson that he would not be attending the radio show, claiming to be "ill". Since he isn't laying down "phat" rhymes or "sick" beats, we have to assume he is claiming to be under the weather with some disease.

We don't buy it for a moment; Professor Hesske has been a vociferous critic of the Filthy Lucre, from its inception in 1989 to the present day. Now, with the opportunity to face us in a public forum, his courage fails him.

The Filthy Lucre Funtime Radio Hour will be a regular show every Monday, and we expect to have numerous guests on the air with us; we can only hope that Professor Hesske will one day do the Right Thing, and come on our program.
